

Letter from my supervisor

Detailing my effort during the 2007 MLB All-Star Game

"I also want to single out one person who dedicated 24 hours a day to the Giants. Joe Legaz really stepped up, and was a major contributor for the success of ALL STAR WEEK. He worked crazy hours, even coming back after the Gala to make sure that scripts were updated. I cannot say enough about the effort that Joe put forward, bringing together our group. He has definitely grown and he has raised the expectations for his potential.

I congratulate Joe on his amazing job throughout the All Star Game, and his hard work, dedication, and commitment to the Giants behind the scenes. So many people are getting credit that they may or may not have earned. But Joe definitely deserves a lot, because most of his work was not seen by many outside of our department. He made me very proud, and in the end, the Giants organization is very lucky to have him. Thank you Joe"

- Bryan Srabian, Giants VP Brand Development, & Digital Media